CONFERENCE CONNECTIONS

One of the most valuable professional development opportunities at every annual conference is meeting and networking with other professionals in the region. The UMR-ACUHO Membership Involvement Committee encourages all conference attendees to be intentional about initiating these relationships.

In an effort to assist attendees in building these relationships, we once again offer the Conference Connections program. Through this program, first-time attendees will be paired with returning conference attendees in order to aid in UMR networking.

Returning Conference Attendees include anyone who has attended at least one UMR conference in the past and had a positive experience.

Benefits of participating in this program include: building networks, getting questions answered, gaining conference insight, and eating a FREE LUNCH!

Please note that you must be able to attend the Conference Connections Luncheon that will be held on Wednesday, November 7, 2018. Space is limited. If you choose to participate, we will contact you with further information regarding details of connecting.

CASE STUDY COMPETITION

UMR-ACUHO and the Professional Development & Training Committee will be hosting the Annual Case Study Competition. This long-standing professional development experience is a great opportunity to work with and learn from someone from another institution to test problem solving and decision-making skills, and to receive feedback from experienced judges.

This competition is designed for entry-level professionals who are defined as graduate assistants/graduate student employees and anyone who has not yet completed three years of full-time experience. Due to the limited number of spaces in this year's competition and to encourage learning across institutions, we are pairing all participants with someone from another institution.

This year, the Annual Case Study Competition will occur as a pre-conference opportunity. The competition will take place on Wednesday morning between 8:30am-12pm. Participants will receive the Case Study 30 minutes prior to their presentation time on Wednesday morning. This will ensure that the case study process reflects response to critical situations within a limited time frame, as well as limits the time commitment required to participate.

Participants can expect to be occupied for approximately 70 minutes, including time to check-in and be introduced to their assigned partner. Instructions will be provided to participants via email prior to the competition day.

Judges will work in teams of two and will judge two Case Study Group presentations. Judges can expect to be occupied for approximately 90 minutes; including time to check-in, meet your assigned judging partner, and a built-in 10 minute break between presentations. Instructions will be provided to judges via email prior to the competition day.
